2010 “Mid-Career Faculty Achievement” Award

The Family Medicine Education Consortium (FMEC), through its FMEC Northeast Region Meeting, seeks to support mid-career faculty with expertise in an area relevant to Family Medicine. It is our intention to identify and acknowledge one mid-career (i.e., five to twelve years of academic experience) faculty member each year, who has demonstrated significant achievement. There are currently few opportunities for mid-career faculty to be recognized for their efforts. The intent of this recognition is to assist faculty who have not yet received tenure approval or otherwise been highly recognized for their efforts.

Achievement Measures:

To receive recognition through this award, a faculty member may have:

- Written articles, books, manuscripts or other academic materials which reveal a significant intellectual contribution to the field of Family Medicine and health-care in general;
- Designed and implemented curricular innovations which have made a significant impact on learners such as faculty, residents, students, patients and their family members and/or the community at large. These innovations should include impact studies describing the effectiveness of their intervention;
- Designed and implemented health-care programs which have had a measurable impact on those served by the program;
- Designed and implemented research and other scholarly initiatives that have contributed to the scientific inquiry within an area of interest to the field of Family Medicine and health-care in general;
- Designed and implemented administrative programs that have had a demonstrable effect on the productivity of the organizations in which they were implemented.

Nomination Process:

We seek nominations from current FMEC members. A nomination should include a letter (two to three pages) summarizing the individual's contribution and a copy of the nominee's resume. Nominations will be received through May 15, 2010. A panel drawn from the membership of the Family Medicine Education Consortium will review the nominations. The nominee should currently be active in one of the various programs and departments of Family Medicine within the northeast region of the US. Senior faculty members (i.e., faculty members who have been approved for tenure or who have received substantial recognition from national organizations) will not be considered for this recognition.

Recognition:

The individual selected for this recognition will be asked to summarize his/her work during a Seminar session at the upcoming 2010 FMEC Northeast Region Meeting in Hershey, PA, October 29—31, 2010. The individual selected for this recognition will receive a complimentary registration to the conference and two complimentary hotel nights at the hotel. Travel expenses not included.
